FRIDAY, June 19 The course of prices on the Stock Exchange to-day clearly imparted strength to the opinion of those who hold that liquidation in the security market has been very thorough, that the market is in an oversold condition as the result of bearish speculation, and that all indications are that strong resistance will be made to further attempts to depress prices, while a comparatively small amount of buying will suffice to advance prices decidedly. Quotations from London came weak to-day, unusual declines being reported for the Steel shares. Judging from the experience of the past few weeks, therefore, another grand attack upon our market might have been expected or, at least, resumption of bearish activity on a scale sufficient to bring about lower prices. Few stocks on the list, however, opened at prices as low as those quoted in London and the market developed marked strength from the very opening. There were many times during the day when the advance halted, but at these times the market became dull and not, as on previous occasions under similar circumstances, weak. Nearly all the prominent stocks showed net gains at the close of more than 1 per cent. The strongest and most active stock in to-day's trading was Reading common, which at one time showed a gain of two points over last night's final figures and retained substantially all its advance until the end of the session. The trading element were somewhat mystified by the event. They admitted that the anthracite coal stocks were in a strong position at present. but they were unaware of any special reason for an advance in Reading at this time Regarding this, it may, perhaps, be said that there are many things which the trading element do not understand and that it is not always necessary that they should understand them. What is evident is that the dealings in Reading to-day were of a character that usually indicates the beginning of an important movement. As to the very profitable business now being done by the authracite coal companies, there is no difference of opinion. The fact is that the profits of the coal companies and coal roads are much larger and the prospects of their continuance are much better than has been publicly revealed. The coal properties are not menaced either by floods or poor harvests. Their labor troubles are over and they have a large market for their product at high prices. All the shares of the anthracite coal roads to-day were very strong.

The day's news developments, too, were uniformly favorable. Official announcement was made by the United States Steel Corporation that the price of steel rails for 1904 would be unchanged at the present rate of $28 per ton, and that the company did not see how it could adopt any other course than this, inasmuch as the full producing capacity of all its rail mills was under orders for seven or eight months ahead, and 250,000 tons of rails for delivery in 1904 had already been contracted for. It is also authoritatively stated that no important changes will be made in the corporation's schedule of finished steel prices for 1904, and it is known that a similar policy will govern the conferences of the outside associations of manufacturers of various iron and steel products. A better understanding prevalls regarding the peculiar reason for the recent liquidation in the United States Steel shares, and with a truer conception of the stability of the present iron and steel situation, much of the unduly bearish talk current regarding the steel shares may be expected to abate. Foreign exchange was easier to-day. The cotton, corn and wheat markets were weaker because of the advent of much more favorable weather conditions in all the agricultural sections. A leading trade journal declared that the wheat harvests in the Southwest indicated thus far a far better yield than had hitherto been expected there, and that in general the injury to winter wheat had been exaggerated. Exports of wheat for the week but corn exports were 1,089,353 bushels. against only 324,815 bushels a week ago. A large quantity of corn was also taken to-day for export. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad's increase in gross earnings for the second week of June, as published to-day, of $42,985, the Southern Railway's increase of $40,291, and the Norfolk and Western's of $149,653, testified to the still undiminished prosperity of our internal commerce. The very heavy increase in the Norfolk and Western's earnings was an emphatic illustration, particularly, of the profits now being made by the coal railroads. Estimates of the amount of cash gained by the banks during the week on all transactions varied between $3,500,000 and $5,000,000, and a generally favorable
